NAZI REPORT OF HITLER'S DEATH DOUBTED

Doenitz Is Said To Have Taken Fuehrer's Place

Announcement of Adolf's Demise Called Trick by the Russians

[By The Associated Press]

LONDON, Wednesday, May 2 (AP)—The Hamburg Nazi radio said last night that Adolf Hitler died yesterday afternoon in Berlin and had been succeeded by Admiral Karl Doenitz, his personal choice to command the German nation.

The official Moscow radio this morning called the German broadcast "a new Fascist trick," by which "the German Fascists evidently hope to prepare for Hitler the possibility of disappearing from the scene and going to an underground position."

Accepted by British

At the British foreign office, however, the report of Hitler's death—but not necessarily of the place or manner—was accepted as true.

Doenitz broadcast a proclamation and an order of the day pledging continuance of the war and demanding the same loyalty as previously sworn to Hitler.

The Hamburg broadcast opened with a ruffle of drums and signed off with Wagnerian music.

"It is reported from the fuehrer's headquarters that our fuehrer Adolf Hitler, fighting to the last breath against bolshevism, fell for Germany this afternoon in his operational headquarters in the Reichschancellery," said the German-language announcement recorded by the Associated Press listening post in London at 10:27 p. m. (4:27 p. m., eastern war time).

Appointed by Hitler

"On April 30 the fuehrer appointed Grand Admiral Doenitz his successor. Theg rand admiral and successor of the fuehrer now speaks to the German people."

A speaker identifying himself as Doenitz then pledged continuance of the war, declaring:

"It is my first task to save Germany from destruction by the advancing bolshevist enemy. For this aim alone the military struggle continues.

"As far and for so long as achievement of this aim is impeded by the English and Americans, we shall be forced to carry on our defensive fight against them as well. Under such conditions, however, the Anglo-Americans will continue the war not for their own peoples but solely for the spreading of bolshevism in Europe."

Neither Doenitz nor the Hamburg announcer made any mention of Heinrich Himmler, Gestapo chief who within the past few days had tried to surrender Germany to Britain and the United States but not to Russia, and had been rebuffed by the Western Allies. Yet Doenitz's pointing of the struggle against Russia was in line with Himmler's offer and Nazi propaganda designed to split the Allies.

Hails Hitler as Hero

Doenitz eulogized Hitler as a man who had dedicated his life to Germany and to warring against "bolshevism," and who now had died a "hero's death."

A powerful ghost voice interrupted him, shouting, "This is a lie!"

The ghost voice continued to heckle throughout the Doenitz speech.

Questions immediately arose

KARL DOENITZ

"Kill, Kill, Kill" His Order to Crews of Submarines

(By The Associated Press)

Grand Admiral Karl Doenitz who was reported by the Hamburg radio last (Tuesday) night to have succeeded Adolf Hitler as head of Nazi Germany is an able, ruthless commander who originated the "wolf-pack" submarine tactics and sent his underwater crews out with an exhortation to "kill, kill, kill!"

A veteran of U-boat warfare in World War One, Doenitz was not known as an arden Nazi and was believed to have backed his commanders in successful demands that the government cease the practice of assigning gestapo agents to accompany each U-boat on its forays against the Allies.

Now fifty-three years old, Doenitz succeeded Grand Admiral Erich Raeder as supreme commander of the German navy on Jan. 30, 1943, retaining command of the submarine warfare.

"Kill, kill, kill!" he was reported to have told these U-boat crews. "That is your duty to the fatherland and de fuehrer. Have no humanity in your labors. Humanity means weakness."

Born Sept. 16, 1891, at Berlin, son of an engineer, Doenitz entered the imperial Germany navy on April 1, 1910, as a cadet on Sept. 20, 1913, he was named a lieutenant and served aboard the cruiser Breslau where he was in August, 1914, when the First World war broke out.

Honored by Kaiser

In 1916 he was attached to the submarine school and then commanded a submarine, U-boat 25, that waged successful warfare against Allied merchantment in the Mediterranean and Atlantic. In the Mediterranean he led his submarine into an Allied port through mine fields and with one torpedo sank "a valuable navy repair ship." For this he received the Hohenzollern order. Later he was decorated with the Iron Cross.

In 1917 his U-boat was brought to the surface near Malta by attack of a British destroyer and he was a British prisoner for a time.

After the World War he was employed first as commander of a destroyer flotilla for several years and also served as navigation officer aboard the cruiser Nymphe.

In October, 1930, he became first officer of the admiralty general staff stationed at the naval base of Wilhelmshaven. Here he made an intensive study of submarine warfare and construction.

In the summer of 1935 he commanded the cruiser Emden on a trip to the East Indies. When he returned the high command told him he had proved his ability in past work as a submarine commander and he was put in charge of the submarine service.

He also became an instructor to young submarine commanders and acquired recognition for his tactical and technical improvements in various types of submarines at the beginning of the war.

Because of German submarine successes Doenitz was decorated with the Chevalier Cross in April, 1940, and the Iron Cross in September, 1940.

He became a vice-admiral and on March 14, 1942, in recognition of the blows struck by his submarines he was promoted to admiral. When he succeeded Raeder in 1943 he was given the title of grand admiral.

Truman To Ask For Quiet V-E Day Observance

By ERNEST B. VACCARO

WASHINGTON, May 1 (AP)—President Truman moved today to head off celebrations when V-E day comes, to continue price and ration controls and to concentrate the nation's energy on the war against Japan.

In rapid-fire sequence, the president:

1. Disclosed that he will make a radio speech on V-E day asking the people to refrain from celebrations and continue in their war jobs.

2. Vigorously defended OPA Administrator Chester Bowles from a recent storm of criticism, and asked a one-year extension of the price and ration control law, which expires June 30.

3. Appealed to key personnel of wartime government agencies to stick to their posts until "the ship of state is safe in the harbor again." This request, made in a letter to War Mobilizer Fred M. Vinson, had special reference to businessmen who have come to Washington to help solve critical problems on the home front.

In a formal statement defending OPA, the president said:

"I suppose the OPA, like the rest of us, has made a few mistakes. But when we look at the whole record, I think that our price control and stabilization program has been one of the most remarkable achievements of this war."

British Blackout Ends

LONDON, May 1 (AP)—British censorship lifted tonight all restrictions on news stories relating to the movements of the royal family and the prime minister within the country.

Japan Seeking Peace with China

SAN FRANCISCO, May 1 (AP)—Foreign Minister T. V. Soong said today Japan is making peace overtures to China "by the bushel."

"Our answer," Soong said, "is go talk to the United Nations. We will not talk to you alone."

Fighter Plane Crashes

MORGANTOWN, Pa., May 1 (AP)—A single-seater fighter plane exploded in mid-air today and crashed in the Welsh mountains near here, killing the pilot.

Allied Invasion Of Dutch Borneo Is Confirmed

Australian Division Is Taking Part in Attack on Oil Center

MANILA, Wednesday, May 2 (AP)—Allied invasion of Dutch Borneo was reported by official Australian sources today while Gen. Douglas MacArthur, silent on this, announced American troops had reached within six miles of Davao city, vital port on Mindanao island in the Philippines.

At Canberra, Australian acting Prime Minister Joseph B. Chifley said a veteran Aussie division was participating in an invasion of olirich Borneo, one of the top prizes seized by the Japanese in their swift sweep through the East Indies more than three years ago.

Japanese broadcasters said Allied assault troops invaded near Tarakan, oil port just off Northwestern Borneo, last night after being repulsed in an earlier try.

MacArthur, whose communiques usually cover developments two days before, made no mention of Borneo other than to report continued air strikes there.

On Mindanao, Maj. Gen. Roscoe Woodruff's Twenty-fourth infantry division overran Darong airstrip and reached Daliao airfield, within six miles of Davao city.

There was no mention of opposition. The Yanks expect a tough fight at Davao City, center of prewar Japanese activity in the Philippines. The estimated enemy force of 50,000 troops has yet to be encountered.

OPA Authorizes Price Increases For Soft Coal

WASHINGTON, May 1 (AP)—The OPA today authorized immediate soft coal price ceiling increases ranging from four to fifty-five cents a ton to compensate for higher wages granted to miners.

The increases are in producers' ceilings and will be passed on to the public.

OPA acted under authorization of Economics Stabilization Director William H. Davis.

The price hikes were approved for all but two of the country's twenty-two producing districts. Strip mines in five other districts did not qualify for increases, OPA said.

The two district receiving no increases are number sixteen, Northern Colorado, and number nineteen, Wyoming and part of Idaho.

Explanation by OPA

Explaining this, OPA said that wherever wage increases reduce a producing district's operating margin either below fifteen cents a ton or below its 1942 margin, whichever is greater, ceiling price increases are followed. The margin was not reduced below this standard in the two districts denied increases, OPA added.

The national average price increase will amount to sixteen cents a ton. An additional, five cents of the wage increase will be absorbed by producers.

The ceiling increase for producers, by district and type of mine, in cents per ton:

Maryland Prices

District one — Central Pennsylvania, Maryland and part of West Virginia, strip mines no increase, deep mines eighteen cents;

District two—Western Pennsylvania, strip nine cents, deep fourteen cents;

District three — North West Virginia, all mines twenty-three cents;

District four—Ohio, strip no increase, deep twenty-six cents; district five—Michigan, all mines forty cents; district seven—part of West Virginia and part of Virginia, all mines twenty-six cents. District eight—Southern West Virginia and parts of Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee and North Carolina, all mines fifteen cents; district nine—Western Kentucky, hand operated mines twenty cents, other mines six cents; district ten—Illinois, hand operated twenty cents, machine operated nine cents, strip mines no increase.

Four Nations Named To Draft Charter

SAN FRANCISCO, May 1 (AP)—The United Nations conference today put Belgium, South Africa, Norway and Venezuela in charge of four major commissions which will draft its charter for a world organization.

Without a change or a hitch, it approved assignments to the commissions and to a dozen committees which will serve under them. The lineup was as recommended by Executive and Steering committees. Thus small nations won top spots in the conference.

IL DUCE AND HIS MISTRESS IN DEATH

THE BULLET-TORN FACES of Benito Mussolini, former Italian dictator, and his mistress, Clara Petacci, lie in the dirt of a Milanese street after the couple were executed by Italian Patriots. They were caught while fleeing towards Switzerland with other leading Italian Fascists.

Aerial Box Score:

2,453,595 Tons of Bombs Dropped On Germany, 40,822 Planes Smashed

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

LONDON, May 1—(AP)—American and British planes have dropped 2,453,595 tons of explosives on German targets since the start of the war, it was disclosed today, and Allied airmen destroyed 40,822 German planes, losing 26,715 of their own.

For every ton the Germans hurled at Britain by bomber plane or V-bomb they received 315 in return.

American bombers operating from England, on the continent, and from Italy contributed 1,453,595 tons of the total, and approximately 1,000,000 tons were dropped by the RAF.

Final Score Sheet

The final score sheet of the air war, which now is all but ended, shows that Allied bomber losses were 16,552, of which 8,001 were American. Of the 10,163 fighters failing to return, 7,165 of them were American.

The German air force sacrificed 20,574 planes in combat to American fighter pilots and 12,337 more were shot up on the ground. Nearly 5,000 parked planes were wrecked in the "cleanup" month of April in the greatest single blow of the war which reduced the Luftwaffe to a token force of only nuisance value.

Many Dropped in March

The Eighth air force based in Britain alone dropped 694,838 tons of bombs on German targets, about one-sixth of this weight being delivered in the "saturation month" of March preparatory to the Rhine jump-off.

The Eighth destroyed 18,511 enemy aircraft, 5,230 being knocked out of the air by Mustangs and Thunderbolts at a loss of 2,016 and 6,001 being shot down by Fortresses and Liberators at a loss of 4,161.

During April Eighth air force gunners accounted for 2,004 enemy planes, 1,786 being bagged on the ground. This broke all records for a single month.

Top American Ace

The top American ace in number of German planes destroyed is Lt. Col. John Meyer, Forest Hills, Long Island, N. Y., who has shot down twenty-four and one-half in the air and wrecked thirteen on the ground. Lt. Col. John Landers, of Joshua, Tex., has a thirty-six total, twenty-two of them on the ground.

One of the greatest records, made by Lt. Col. Francis Gabreski, of Oil City, Pa., now a prisoner of war, tops the American aces in the European theater with twenty-eight combat kills. He also has destroyed three on the ground.

Allies May Ask Nazis To Prove Hitler Is Dead

LONDON, May 1—(AP)—The Allies will demand that Hitler's body be produced after the surrender of Germany in order to remove all doubt as to the truth of today's German radio report of his death, it was said tonight at the British foreign office.

High official quarters reserved decision as to what implications the report of Hitler's death would have on German peace overtures previously credited to Heinrich Himmler.

The reason for appointment of Grand Admiral Karl Doenitz as Hitler's successor was not immediately apparent to official quarters, it was said.

One responsible, but unofficial source, said it was possible that Himmler realized he himself was unpopular in Germany and that Doenitz might be more successful in carrying out surrender terms, particularly as to their acceptance by the German armed forces.

Graziani Quits As War in Italy Practically Ends

By NOLAND NORGAARD

ROME, May 1 (AP) — Fascist Commander Marshal Rodolfo Graziani announced the unconditional surrender tonight of his Ligurian army as New Zealand units linked up with Yugoslav forces near Trieste at the head of the Adriatic sea and American units raced for the southern end of the Brenner Pass into Austria.

Graziani told his troops in a broadcast that "the time has arrived when further resistance would beu seless and inhuman, and, as far as I am concerned, criminal.

Lt. Gen. Pemsel, German chief of staff to the Ligurian army, followed Graziani on the air and declared: "I confirm without reserve the words of my commander, Marshal Graziani. You must obey his orders."

Thus the two and a half-year-old Italian campaign was rapidly drawing to a close. Only skirmishes were reported as the Allied troops spread over the northern end of the peninsula to engulf the few knots of German soldiers offering a demoralized resistance.

Russian Shock Troops Capture Heart of Berlin

By ROMNEY WHEELER

LONDON, Wednesday, May 2. (AP)—Russian shock troops captured 100 rubbled blocks in the blazing administrative heart of tottering Berlin yesterday as they closed in on the Reichschancellery area where the German radio said Adolf Hitler died Tuesday afternoon.

There was little of the German capital left in the hands of Nazi die-hards—perhaps ten square miles at the most—for west and south of the Reichschancellery the Russians cleared out the city districts of Charlottenburg and Schoeneberg.

Red Command Silent

The Soviet high command, keeping silent on the Hamburg radio's report of Hitler's death, did not announce the capture of any specific buildings in Berlin's shell-raked center. It was not known whether the Russians had reached the Reichschancellery by the time of the Nazi leader's reported death.

Twenty-four hours previously, the Russians had raised their banner of victory over the Reichstag, a half-mile to the north, and on Sunday they captured the Anhalter station, a half-mile to the south.

German resistance in the capital was nearing total collapse. Monday, a day before the reported death of Hitler, 14,000 weary, battle-stunned German troops surrendered to the Red army. During yesterday, 8,000 were killed, for a five-day total of 87,500 killed or captured.

Capture Baltic Port

Meanwhile, Premier Stalin announced that Soviet tanks, maintaining their twenty miles a day sweep across Northern Germany, had captured the Baltic port of Stralsund, terminus for the main railroad ferry to Malmo, Sweden, and had surged within twenty-three miles of Rostock by the capture of Gnoien.

Far to the south in Czechoslovakia, two Soviet armies cleared the Vah river valley in Moravia and Slovakia and converged on the great Morvaian rail center of Olmuetz, while Cieszyn, last German-held city in Southwestern Poland was imminently threatened.

Patton's Troops Racing To Trap Big Nazi Force

Americans and Russians Less Than 40 Miles from New Linkup

By ROBERT EUNSON

PARIS, Wednesday, May 2 (AP)—Braunau, quaint little Austrian town where Adolf Hitler was born fifty-six years ago, was captured last night by United States Third Army tanks just as the German radio was telling the world that the Nazi fuehrer was dead.

The thirteenth armored division took Braunau on the Inn river after storming across the Isar river and driving twenty-five miles.

A field dispatch said Gen. Patton's forces had established radio contact with Russian columns pounding westward from Vienna and that the two armies were probably less than forty miles from a junction which would trap all Germans in Czechoslovakia and isolate Nazi forces in the Alpine redoubt below Munich.

No Comment by Eisenhower

The broadcast report of Hitler's death brought no comment from Gen. Eisenhower, whose several million fighting men had crushed the Nazi foe on the battlefields of France, Belgium, Holland and Germany and broken into the sanctuary of his long-planned southern redoubt.

Military observers here did not overlook the possibility that the dramatic announcement of Hitler's death might be a mask and recalled previous intimations that when the end was inevitable Hitler might "go underground," with his subordinates making a false announcement of his death in some heroic role in order to cover his disappearance.

30 Miles from Salzburg

Units of the Thirteenth armored division which hammered to the Braunau area on the German-Austrian border were only thirty miles from Salzburg, eastern rampart of the Nazi southern stronghold, and forty-four miles from Berchtesgaden.

The Third army—called by field correspondents the "General Patton Express"—plunged forward along a 100-mile front. Towns identified as swept up in the drive included Eggenfeld, fifteen miles northwest of Braunau, and Geisberg, sixteen miles northeast of Hitler's birthplace, but they were well behind the advance.

Approach Brenner Pass

Lt. Gen. Alexander N. Patch's Seventh army, fired to new peaks of fighting fury by the evidences of Nazi barbarism unfolding before them in the vicinity of captured Munich, smashed on beyond that city to within ten miles of Innsbruck in Austria and within fifteen miles of the northern gateway to the Brenner Pass through the Alps.

All of Southern Germany was overrun except the southeast corner of Bavaria, and only huge bomb craters and road blocks were impeding the Seventh army's tanks as they plunged through narrow Alpine valleys toward the rail center of Innsbruck.

Hailing the capture of Munich, Germany's third largest city, Gen. Eisenhower asserted in a rare order of the day that "the whole AEF congratulates the Seventh army on the seizure of Munich, the cradle of the Nazi beast."

Aroused by Disclosures

The Allied commander-in-chief appeared to have been roused by the fresh disclosures of horror at the nearby Dachau prison camp, freed just before Munich fell.

Churchill Hints He May Have Big News This Week

By ALEX SINGLETON

LONDON, May 1 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill told the House of Commons today that he might have "information of importance" to impart before Saturday, but disappointed hopes that he would clarify immediately the prospects of peace in Europe.

Never once using the word "peace", Churchill told an expectant House that "should information of importance reach his majesty's government during the four days of our sitting this week as it might do—I will ask the speaker's permission to ask the indulgence of the House to interrupt the business and make a brief announcement."

Parliament's normal weekly program ends Friday night.

The fact that the Prime Minister did not divulge the progress of peace negotiations carried potential significance. Only a few hours earlier the foreign office had announced Churchill would have a statement to make when he appeared in Commons. In the interval he changed his plans,

Mine Seizures Loom in Hard Coal Sections

WASHINGTON, May 1—(AP)—The War Labor Board made renewed efforts tonight to get Pennsylvania's 72,000 anthracite miners back to work. New government mine seizures impended if the efforts were unsuccessful.

The board, acting swiftly after a brief hearing here while all anthracite production was at a standstill as a result of expiration of the United Mine Workers' contract last midnight, directed UMW Chief John L. Lewis and the operators to continue operations.

It stressed that it expected compliance "immediately and without reservations."

The directive ordered "uninterrupted production under terms of the expired contract and required that any wage adjustments finally agreed upon should apply retroactively from April 30.

"Widespread stoppages of work by members of the union have developed today at the anthracite mines in the state of Pennsylvania apparently because of the absence of a contract," the board told Lewis and key representatives of the operators in a statement made public here. "The board's order provides for a continuing contract."

Confusion in Germany May Increase If Hitler Is Dead, Simpson Asserts

Associated Press War Analyst

The death of Adolf Hitler—if he is dead— at first glance only adds to the confusion in Germany.

It would remove the one voice that could conceivably have ended all hostilities promptly by a general surrender order to German troops of all categories. But that Hitler would ever have issued such an order, or surrendered himself to the fate that certainly awaited him, is beyond belief.

It follows, should his death be confirmed, that responsibility for surrender of their troops to save useless slaughter must fall on German field commanders wherever they are. And there are hints that just that course was strongly indicated to them in Anglo-American rejection of recent Nazi proposals for surrender negotiations.

It seems logical to expect what is left of the Wehrmacht to deal with Russian and Allied commanders in the field as the Nazi-Fascist leaders in Western Italy have done in ordering their Ligurian forces to lay down their arms.

The Hamburg radio report of Hitler's death has another angle, however. It put forward Admiral Doenitz, ranking naval officer, as Hitler's designated successor.

Louis Lochner Finds It Difficult To Believe der Fuehrer Is Dead

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER
(Chief of the Former Associated Press Bureau in Berlin)

WITH THE UNITED STATES SEVENTH ARMY May 1 (AP)—I have just listened to the short wave broadcast of Adm. Karl Doenitz's speech as the new fuehrer of Germany, but I still find it difficult to believe that Hitler is really dead, or that he even remained in Berlin during the Russian assault upon the capital.

The whole melodramatic buildup beginning with Paul Joseph Goebbels's announcement days ago that Hitler personally was conducting the defense of the capital, now reaching its climax in the claim that he met death in the chancellery, of all places, looks like an effort to make good de fuehrer's oft-repeated assertion, "I'll never capitulate."

Hitler couldn't afford to accept unconditional surrender, so what may prove to be the legend of his meeting a hero's death had to be staged.

Hitler may or may not be dead. If he is dead, it seems extremely unlikely he died as the German radio says he did. Having spent the past days in the very section of the country where Hitler rose to power, wrote "Mein Kampf," and conducted affairs of intrigue with the whole world from Munich, I still cannot escape the feeling that Hitler is some place where nobody expects him to be.

Kehoe and Silcox To Head District Scout Committees

Appointment of Bradley S. Kehoe as chairman of the camping and activities committee and H. Lee Silcox as chairman of the health and safety committee of Cumberland district, Potomac Council, Boy scouts of America, was announced last evening by Miles G. Thompson, district chairman, following a meeting in the Cumberland Free Public Library.

The committee selected Saturday, June 23 as the date for holding the district camporee and arrangements will be made to stage the annual event in Constitution park.

It was decided to hold an outdoor camping activity patterned along the same lines of a "Gold Rush" on August 18 and 19. The site for this overnight camp has not been selected.

Thompson announced that a leadership training course for camping will be held the latter part of this month. Dates will be announced within the next ten days.

Patton's Troops

Reports persisted at supreme headquarters that the Germans might be expected at any moment to accept the United Nations' demand for unconditional surrender.

In the North American airborne troops and the British Second army hammered out a solid bridgehead twenty miles wide and twelve miles deep across the Elbe river east of Hamburg, threatening to cut Denmark and Schleswig-Holstein province off from the rest of Germany and further chop the Nazis into pockets for eventual annihilation.

Yanks Support British

The Hamburg radio said United States parachute troops and glider-borne infantry were landed in the bridgehead to support Field Marshal Montgomery's forces in the "bitter" fight on the North German plain. The broadcast said "strong German tank forces" were engaging the Allies.

The American Ninth and First armies strung out along the Elbe river joined Russian troops in what front dispatches indicated was a very liquid celebration of May day. Red army troops, as hosts for the day, dispensed food and drink with a lavish hand. "It was just another Russian victory," said one AP correspondent.

Another 60,000 prisoners, including Admiral Nicholas Horthy, former regent of Hungary, two German field marshals and eight German generals surrendered to the hard-hitting American forces smashing the southern redoubt.

Wolfe's Market Quits Business

The Wolfe Meat Market, 105 North Centre street, is definitely out of business, Charles H. Wolfe, proprietor, announced last evening.

First announcement to this effect appeared in the Cumberland News on March 14, at which time Wolfe stated that OPA regulations were forcing him to close shop on April 15.

A sign: "Closed. Sold Out," appearing on the front door of the shop yesterday morning was sufficient evidence that Wolfe had carried out his promise.

When contacted last evening Wolfe said that he has quit business* "That's final and I don't wish to discuss the matter any more," he declared.

The Wolfe meat business was established here in 1800 and the market has been in operation on North Centre street for the past thirty years.

Last week a consent injunction was filed in Federal court, Baltimore, and Wolfe paid a $1,175.32 fine for violation of OPA price regulations.

Wolfe operated the largest retail market in Cumberland and also supplied many local restaurants with meat.

Dick Continues

appeared at Annapolis at the hearing on this bill and indorsed it. "Several mothers in the county volunteered and made a house-to-house canvass" in behalf of the bill, Dick stated, and added that he also was "petitioned by a church group in Frostburg to introduce this bill."

Dick declared he has not fought the present act "for the past six years just to be fighting something but because of certain things I have witnessed in the county in the liquor set-up."

He asserted that he thinks "we owe it to the mothers and fathers of the county in regard to proper enforcement and to boys overseas so when they come back they will be elegible for any benefits enjoyed by other citizens and not be deprived for benefit of a few."

Dick said that former Chief Judge D. Lindley Sloan was "quoted in the public press as saying that the court was saddled with the act, that it was thrust upon them."

Quotes Letters from Jurists

In view of that statement, Dick said he is "surprised" at the contents of a letter Judges William A. Huster and Walter C. Capper sent to him.

Dick referred to a letter he received from the jurists after writing to them at the early part of the legislative session about the juvenile court, indefinite sentencing of prisoners and the liquor law.

The legislator quoted a part of the letter from the jurists and said it read: "'As to the administration of the liquor law by the circuit court, we have no objection to this whatever. We think it has worked out very well, has kept the liquor business out of politics, and that the people generally are in favor of a continuance of the present law.

"'We know of no decisions of the court of appeals holding such a law unconstitutional; and so far as we know, there has never been any question about the constitutionality of the Allegany County Liquor Law.'"

Dick declared that "we should stick to the form of government laid down by our forefathers whereby if we are to live under democracy, our three phases of government—judicial, executive and legislative—should remain unto themselves."

Dealers May Oppose Move

Yesterday it was reported that the Allegany County Retail Liquor Dealers' Association, composed of most of the tavern owners who now hold liquor licenses, will oppose any move to have the county act declared unconstitutional.

David W. Sloan is attorney for the association and it was reported that William C. Walsh, attorney general, also may be retained in event the fight is carried to circuit court.

One member of the dealers' group said yesterday, "We believe the law is constitutional and is being administered in a fair manner by the court."

Doenitz Is Said

throughout the world whether Hitler actually died in battle against the Russians who now are near complete conquest of his ravaged capital, whether he died in some more ignominious manner, or whether he was dead at all.

Members of parliament and others expressed skepticism, fearing that perhaps the dramatic death broadcast was but an elaborate hoax.

At the British foreign office the report of Hitler's death was accepted as true but official sources refused to comment on the possible accuracy of the Hamburg account of how he died.

It was positive in any event that as soon as the European war was ended the Allies would demand that Hitler's body be produced to remove all doubt.

Identification Possible

A spokesman for Scotland Yard declined to confirm or deny reports that British police or the secret service had dental records, measurements and fingerprints of Hitler already on file so that identification would be possible even long after death.

The Russians in the past have said repeatedly that they believed Hitler long ago had fled from Berlin and possibly left a "double" to "die in action" thereto maintain Hitler's name as a Nazi martyr. The Germans have insisted many times daily, however, that he was in Berlin, personally directing its faltering defense.

The Germans furbished the report of Hitler's death tonight with all the trappings of drama at their command.

At 9:43 p. m. (3:43 p. m., EWT), the Hamburg radio instructed all Germans to keep tuned in for an important announcement. One minute later the renegate Englishman who throughout the war has broadcast Nazi propaganda as "Lord Haw Haw" reiterated the standby order.

Then, forty-three minutes afterward, there was a ruffle of drums on the air and the unidentified announcer gave the report of Hitler's death and introduced Doenitz.

The German announcement came just three days after the execution of Hitler's fallen Axis partner, Benito Mussolini, at the hands of Italian Patriots in Northern Italy.

The announcement came just as American tanks plunged into the Inn river village of Braunnau, Austria, where Adolf Hitler was born on April 20, 1889.

Doenitz Takes Over

Doenitz, the tough, 53-year-old naval officer who made his reputation as chief of submarines and then was elevated to command of the dwindling German navy, made a brief, impassioned plea to the German people to continue the struggle, concluding, "if we do all that is in our power, God will not forsake us after so much suffering and sacrifice."

Then the radio played the German national anthem, Deutschland Uber Alles, and the Nazi party anthem. There followed three minutes of silence, then a special order of the day was read from Doenitz to the German military services.

Repeating the gist of [illegible] speech to the whole people, it had the added line:

"For every single one of you the oath of loyalty to the fuehrer is transferred straight to my person as the fuehrer's appointed successor.

"German soldiers! Do your duty! The existence of our people is at stake!"

Reference to the oath of loyalty apparently was an effort by Doenitz to hold German officers to the personal oath of fealty they had been forced to swear to Hitler after the bomb assassination plot last July, and from which his death might presumably release them to go their own chosen courses.

Immediately after the Doenitz order was concluded, Lord Haw Haw repeated the program in English. The Hamburg station then played a series of dirges.

Emergence of Doenitz as the proclaimed leader of what remains of Nazi Germany was puzzling to London observers. He never had been considered high enough in the Nazi hierarchy to be successor to Hitler, who at the start of the war had nominated Herman Goering and Rudolf Hess as his first and second alternates.

Hess now is a prisoner in England, and Goering recently was declared by the German radio to have resigned because of heart trouble.

If Doenitz's nomination by Hitler was bona fide, it was obvious that Himmler no longer was in a position to speak as the leader of all Germany, as he had made himself appear in his peace bid to Britain and America last week.

One theory put forward by a responsible but unofficial quarter here was that Himmler realized his own unpopularity and that Doenitz was considered more likely to succeed with the armed forces.

The news of the German broadcast was relayed promptly to Prime Minister Churchill, General Eisenhower and other high officials, but no comment was forthcoming from them.

Confusion in

It is in the coastal sector in the Hamburg area that the most formidable Nazi resistance is being encountered by Russian and Allied troops. Presumably German naval personnel form a considerable part of the garrison of the "northern redoubt" into which United Nations troops are driving relentlessly. There is no German navy any longer to be manned.

Selection of a naval member of the Nazi high command to succeed Hitler might indicate sharp friction between the Nazis and the German army professionals over the course to be taken in this hour of supreme crisis for Germany.

There have been unconformed reports that Hitler and his generals were desperately at odds, the latter urging unconditional surrender. If that is the case, the Hamburg version of Hitler's death and of his having entrusted national leadership to a naval man might cause civil war in parts of Germany still in German hands.

Public Strongly Favors Postwar Compulsory Military Training

By DR. GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., May 1—So far, the debate which has been going on over the question of a post-war compulsory military training program for the youth of the nation has not changed public sentiment toward the problem.

Nearly five months ago, a survey on the issue found seventy per cent approving the idea of a compulsory military training program after the war.

Dr. George Gallup

A survey just completed across the nations finds seventy per cent still favoring the idea.

Moreover, strong sentiment favoring compulsory military training prevails in every section of the nation. Sentiment approving the program is just as high among women as it is among men.

Democrats are found in favor of the program by a much larger majority than Republicans; however, members of both parties give their approval by large majorties.

The question asked in today's survey is identical to that asked in earlier surveys:

"After the war is over, do you think every able-bodied young man should be required to take military or naval training for one year?"

Across the nation, the replies add up as follows:

Yes	70%
No	24
No Opinion	6

The vote by men and women, by political preferences and geographical sections:

	Yes	No	No Opin.
MEN-WOMEN
Men	70%	25%	5%
Women	70	23	7
POLITICAL PREFERENCE
Dewey Voters	61%	34%	5%
Roosevelt Voters	77	16	8

N. Eng. & Mid. Atl.	69%	25%	6%
East and W. Cent.	66	29	5
South	74	17	9
Mountain States & Far West	72	25	3

Among those who favor post-war compulsory military training, opinion on whether a law to put it into effect should be passed now or after the war ends is fairly evenly divided.

The question asked in this connection:

"Do you think a military training law should be passed now, or should this wait until after the war?"

The replies of those approving post-war compulsory military training:

Favor Passing Law Now	33%
Favor Waiting Until After War	30
No Opinion	7

News Freedom Guaranty Should Be In Charter

A DISPATCH from San Francisco has quoted Wilbur Forrest, of New York city, as expressing the belief that good prospects obtain for inclusion in postwar treaties of clauses guaranteeing freedom of world news.

Forrest, assistant editor of the New York Herald Tribune, is chairman of the three-man commission of the American Society of Newspaper Editors assigned to talk with newspaper editors and government officials in all friendly countries to seek opinions and support for guaranties of a free international flow of news. He had just returned to this country after the commission had traveled more than 40,000 miles over the world on its mission.

"In no case," Forrest said in San Francisco, "did we find any one who would say he was not behind the idea," and expressed the emphatic belief that the guaranties sought will certainly be included in the "peace treaties."

Considering the importance of these guaranties in the minds of American newspaper editors as an essential instrumentality for the prevention of future wars, this report is indeed encouraging. As Forrest is quoted as indicating the guaranties would be included in "treaties," however, some clearer appreciation of their place seems in order. We have been repeatedly reminded by delegates at the San Francisco conference that its mission and the peace treaties are entirely separate and distinct things. The world security conference is to erect a world peace structure, while the United Nations are to effect a settlement of the war aside and apart from the work of the conference.

Accordingly, where should the news interchange guaranties be placed? Indubitably not in the peace treaties but in the world security charter. This is for the reason that the world security charter, as former President Hoover has pointed out, should not be a purely mechanical body without a soul. It must be based upon the great principles of the rights of nations and of individuals, and these must of necessity include as fundamentals provisions for freedom of speech, the press and religion.

The work of the editors' commission has been a great help toward this objective, particularly in the timeliness of its advance spading. But there have been other favorable circumstances, notably the declaration by President Truman in his opening address to the San Francisco conference, in which he took note of the need for freedom of information and pointed out that "our enemies have clearly demonstrated the disaster which followed when freedom of thought is no longer tolerated." While there had been rumors that this subject would be postponed until the actual peace conference, President Truman's words thus indicated otherwise.

Another favorable factor is the pledge given by Secretary Stettinius, as chairman of the San Francisco conference Steering committee, that all plenary sessions and meetings of the commissions will be open to the press. This improvement over the status of former conferences is as it should be considering that there is now no excuse of military secrecy at the San Francisco conference, which is to consider peace and not war.

Also, the inclusion of Senator Tom Connally and Representative Sol Bloom on the United States delegation is a good augury, both having taken leading parts in sponsoring and furthering the concurrent congressional resolution putting this nation on record as favoring the right of world-wide interchange of news.

In view of all these developments and for the reasons given, the conclusion is obvious that the guaranties of world news freedom should by all means be included in the world security organization. To the mind of this newspaper, future world peace, to which we all so earnestly aspire, depends in great measure upon its forthright embodiment in that great charter and in positive, unambigious terms.

Brakes Should Be Checked for Safety

TRAFFIC ACCIDENTS have taken the lives of more than three quarters of a million human beings in the nation in the past twenty-five years, have crippled countless others, and have piled up economic losses running into billions of dollars. Traffic accidents have achieved the distinction of being one of the leading causes of death in this country.

At a time when all young men under thirty years of age, regardless of essentiality of occupation, face induction into the armed forces, loss of life through traffic accidents is inexcusable and represents a scandalous waste of our first weapon of war—manpower.

The condition of the vehicles does enter into the matter of traffic accidents. And today, with cars nearly twice as old on the average as they were in prewar days, it is high on the list of those causes which contribute not only to the frequency of automobile accidents, but to their severity. Brakes that fail to hold at the critical moment, steering gear failures, blow-outs, faulty lights—all these help to swell the accident total.

Loss of manpower through accidents, coupled with the tremendous problem of conserving motor vehicles, has prompted the International Association of Chiefs of Police to launch a nationwide brake-check program. It started April 15 and will conclude June 1. During that time, traffic officers throughout the country will check passenger cars involved in accidents, those in traffic violations in which cars are moving, and vehicles operated in a manner indicating faulty brakes.

Motorists can assist by getting their brakes—and other parts of the car—tested and repaired as occasion demands. With public cooperation, the program will accomplish its impressive two-fold objective: a saving of our most essential home-front weapon of war—transportation; and prevention of the loss of thousands of lives and limbs.

Civilians Will Get Less Meat This Month

THE MEAT SHORTAGE is reflected sharply in the red point rationing schedule for May as announced by the OPA. According to the rationeers, a ninety-nine and one-half per cent of the meat supply will require ration points this month and, in addition, more point will be required for margarine and most cheeses.

This means, of course, that the civilian's allotted red points will not go as far as they did during April. Some of the coupons formerly available for meat will be spent for margarine, for example, and higher point values placed on a number of meat varieties and cuts will bring about further tightening of belts. No doubt about it—the shortage of meat will be very noticeable during this merry month.

There is little prospect for improvement, despite the stereotyped statements periodically issued by Price Administrator Bowles. He says the new control program now being put in effect will help matters "in the weeks and months just ahead." Livestock men and meat processors, in effect, call him a liar.

No one familiar with the food situation believes there will be improvement for at least a year. In fact, the opinion is held universally—except by Bowles—that next winter will be the most critical on the food front of the war. America simply does not have the food to feed the world, an immense army, and American civilians. "New control programs" by the OPA will not produce the food.

Here's Another Way To Inspire Good Will

TO PROMOTE "greater understanding and closer relations between military personnel" of the United States and Mexico, officers and non-commissioned officers of all Eastern Defense Command Units stationed along the Mexican border have been ordered by their commander, Lt. Gen. George Grunert, to become proficient in conversational Spanish.

The Eastern defense command includes what previously was the Southern defense command, the latter having been absorbed January 1. As a result of General Grunert's order, courses of instruction already have been begun at units in San Antonio, Laredo and El Paso, Texas. The courses also are open to enlisted men.

Citizens of every nation like to have residents of other countries show an appreciation of their language, and there is no better way of demonstrating this appreciation than by learning the language. This alone makes for better relations between the inhabitants of two different countries. From a knowledge of a foreign language, there follows an appreciation of the culture of the nation speaking that particular language.

Millions of residents of foreign nations have studied English and have dipped into English and American literature. Americans have been on the whole much slower to learn languages spoken in other nations. A policy similar to that announced by General Grunert should be inaugurated in areas where American troops are in contact with troops and civilians of other nations of the Western Hemisphere.

What must prove discouraging to the Japs is the fact that despite their fanatical resistance, every battle terminates the same way—in defeat.

Mussolini wasn't the first tyrant to attempt to turn back the clock by shouting, "No! No!" None of the others succeeded in doing it either.

A dandelion leads an uncertain life. It never knows if it will wind up a rubber substitute, a salad ingredient or on the trash pile.

Will this go down in the record as the year in which winter followed spring?

I've done some silly things but I have never greeted anybody I'd met but once with the ramark: "I'll bet you don't remember ME!"

The man who does that is sure eventually to meet somebody who counters with: "Why should I?"

I never knew but one man who used to come back from a vacation all eagerness to go to work . . . Work is a habit that's easily broken.

Height of annoyance: Slamming the door of an automobile and then discovering you've left your keys inside.

A man, genially intoxicated, stopped me and asked for a quarter. Like a smarty I replied: "You haven't a quarter now and you're happy. If I gave you one you'd probably worry about how to spend it." . . . He said: "Well, give me the dime and I'll try to stand up under the triffic responsibility". . . I did.

I met a man who looked me straight in the eyes and said that in two years at the front he'd never been frightened . . . If he told the truth there's something about a man like that that's much worse than being scared.

Molotov Wins on Diplomatic Procedure But Loses Friends South of Rio Grande

By DREW PEARSON

SAN FRANCISCO.—To the average outsider, the most difficult thing to understand about this conference is the attitude of the Russians. Poor press relations, plus a few inept moves have melted down a large mountain of goodwill built up by the valor of the Red army. In a few short days they have destroyed much of the favorable sentiment in Latin America, and through no fault of ours, won us more friends below the Rio Grande than we ever had before.

However, one purpose of this conference is to get to understand people and we are going to have to understand a lot about the Russians in the future. First, let's look at some of the things hardest to understand.

One of the things Molotov did in San Francisco was to invite two prominent Latin-American delegates to dinner at the Russian consulate, along with a few carefully selected Europeans. Latin guests were Mexico's tall, handsome Foreign Minister Padilla, and Chile's aristocratic Foreign Minister Joaquin Fernandez Y Fernandez, who is rapidly assuming a new leadership in Latin America.

Molotov drank a toast to Chile and her new establishment of diplomatic relations with Russia.

"There are so many Chileans who want to become ambassador to Moscow," poked Foreign Minister Fernandez in return, "that it is one of my greatest problems." Mexico's Padilla, apparently on excellent terms with Molotov, said: "All Latin America would be pleased if our sister republic, Argentina, was admitted to the conference."

Molotov, in mellow mood, seemed to register no objection.

Mood Changes

But a day later the mood was different. Padilla arose in secret session to propose Secretary Stettinius as permanent chairman of the conference. Molotov promptly objected. He pointed out that four countries had invited the other nations to attend this conference and that the representatives of all four host countries should rotate as chairman.

Foreign Minister Padilla then delivered a recitation of previous precedents where the nation which served as host also acted as chairman. When he had finished, Molotov, who had already pointed out that four nations were hosts, got up and remarked:

"I am glad to be instructed in diplomatic procedure by the delegate of Mexico, but apparently he prepared his little speech before he heard my view."

Padilla, who had not read his speech, was taken aback. He mumbled something about always being prepared when he attended a conference, and sat down. After a long, hot debate, Molotov won his point. But the manner in which he jumped on the Mexican lost his friends. A lot of Latins, jealous of Padilla's brilliant oratory, previously had been opposed to him. But Molotov veered them in the opposite direction.

Next day, in secret session, Foreign Minister Jan Masaryk, of Czechoslovakia, a nation co-operating with Russia, pointed to the vacant chair of Poland and moved that the Lublin government be admitted. Foreign Minister Subasich, of Yugoslavia, also close to Russia, seconded the motion. Whereupon, Anthony Eden, white-faced and prim, emphatically opposed. There followed more hot debate.

Finally, to break the deadlock, Foreign Minister Spaak, of Belgium, proposed a compromise resolution expressing sympathy with Poland and hoping that she could be admitted soon. Genial, rotund ambassador Caceres, of Honduras, a great friend of the U.S.A., rose to second Belgium.

Whereupon Molotov cracked back: "Notwithstanding the support of the Republic of Honduras, the Soviet Union stands by its position."

Delegates Startled

A note of biting sarcasm rang through Molotov's voice which startled the delegates. It sounded as if the powerful Soviet Union, representing the greatest land-mass in the world, was trying to put the tiniest republic in Latin America in its place. Again, Russia lost more friends. And later when the vote was taken on seating Lublin Poland, she lost that also.

These are some of the things about the Russians that take a lot of understanding. On the other hand, when Molotov, after winning his point on rotating the chairmanship, finally sat in Stettinius's place, he did an excellent job. He got off a little gag about being glad the conference would now have an opportunity to hear Russian, and proceeded to handle the session in the most expert manner.

Unquestionably it was a good thing to have a Russian preside at the conference. Also it was a relief to many people that the chairman didn't smirk and smile at photographers a la Hollywood, as the American chairman does incessantly.

Another thing you have to remember about the Russians is that we kept them isolated for years, so naturally they now behave like isolationists. You can't block off all trade, cultural and diplomatic relations between two nations for twenty years without making them suspicious and putting a chip on their shoulder. We are now reaping the results of that holier-than-thou policy.

Previous Trip Unsuccessful

Also, you have to remember that Molotov himself has been isolated. Up until five years ago he had never been outside Russia. Three years ago, 1942, his first trip to the United States proved a very unsuccessful one in that he was not only denied a second front, but also was told that the Polish problem must wait until after the war to be settled. Now, three years later, he is still trying to settle it. Molotov's ideas on international co-operation also are tinged by the fact that Russia was expelled from the League of nations during her trouble with Finland. And he must remember the period in 1940 when American resentment against Russia over the Finnish question boiled over, and when he made a brief, blunt report to the Soviet parliament.

"I will not dwell on our relations with the United States," he said then, "if only for the reason that there is nothing good that can be said about them."

Molotov Not Free Agent

Finally it must be remembered that Molotoff is not entirely a free agent. Lenin once called him "the best filing clerk in the Soviet Union." Since then Molotov has increased in stature, but so have the Russian generals. There is some suspicion that they are even nudging Stalin's elbow. So when Molotov pulls off his abrupt moves in San Francisco, he doubtless has in mind the people he has to appease back in the Kremlin, and they doubtless have in mind some of the conniving certain United States officials have done regarding a soft peace for Germany.

Those are some of the difficulties in the complicated problem of ironing out a working peace machinery, not only among the little countries, but between the two most powerful nations in the world. And despite all the ups and downs, it is no less than a modern miracle that forty-six nations are able to battle things out, slowly, frankly, in a genuine effort to build up a permanent peace.

NEW TRUMAN PHOTO

ish government are frank and outspoken now about these matters. There is no need, of course, for swashbuckling talk or displays of temper but there is a great need for candor, for temperate criticism and for open discussion in the press.

The first thing to be done is to be practical on the economic side. American economic aid should not be frittered away as if it had nothing to do with other issues or the fulfillment of other agreements. There is no reason for arbitrary decisions or prejudgment of Russian motives or proposals. Her method of bargaining is hard, often inept from our point of view and even irritating, but it must be learned, and she must endeavor to learn our ways of thinking and the importance of what we term ideals. We may not be able to gain acceptance immediately for our ideals but this is no reason to disparage or abandon them as our goal.

A charter will be written here that Russia will accept. What is more important is the fulfillment of such a charter's provisions and the execution of agreements yet to be made with reference to Germany and Japan. For there is to be no peace conference or peace treaty in the 1919 sense. Special problems will be handled in special conferences over a period of years. Peacemaking is to be on a piecemeal basis until each problem is satisfactorily adjusted.

Different Language Tragedy

Meanwhile thoughtful Americans have a solemn duty. The tragedy of differing languages has been revealed here. Mr. Molotov does not speak English. None of the principals on our side speaks Russian. How can we ever begin to appeal to each other's minds and consciences? American universities and colleges should start at once courses in the study of the Russian language. The next American ambassador to Russia should know the language of Russia. Our State department should establish a division of Russian affairs with capable men and women on its staff.

The pride of M. Molotov in being able to preside over the plenary sesion and speak Russian from the platform was mentioned by him. Russia is having a rebirth of patriotism. She is feeling a new sense of power and this must inevitably bring a new sense of responsibility. But if ultimate war between Russia and the western world is to be prevented, no time must be lost in beginning the interchange of missions of officials, of businessmen, of labor leaders, or newspapermen, and of the best exponents of the spiritual and cultural life of the two countries. The gap that already separates Russia and the United States must be closed at the earliest possible moment or there inevitably will be chaos in Europe and ultimately another war of devastating proportions.

Two Different Views of World Power Unfolding

By DAVID LAWRENCE

SAN FRANCISCO, May 1—This is the story of what is going on behind the scenes of the United Nations conference. It is not a story of the phrases of a charter yet to be written nor a story about tedious meetings or conflicting procedures. It is a story nevertheless realistic and in some respects sensational. For it is the story of the conclusions earnestly reached by men of major importance in the various governments represented here. It is, in brief, a warning that if the prevention of World War III is the greatest task that confronts mankind, then a means must be found whereby Russia and the United States shall learn to trust each other, to understand one another, to know one another.

There's no use mincing words. All the nations gathered here, large and small, are lining up, consciously or unconsciously, behind either the United States or Russia. Whether it be Great Britain or France or Brazil or China which look more than ever now to the United States as their mighty protector or whether it be Czechoslovakia, Jugoslavia, and a new array of smaller nations which have decided they must cast their lot with Russia, the fact remains that two different concepts of world power are unfolding. They ought never to be permitted to clash—they ought to be required by world opinion to adjust themselves to each other.

Governments Baffled

There's no use camouflaging the truth or suppressing facts. The Yalta conference brought forth a communique of hopeful phrases, but Russia has not fulfilled the agreements made at Teheran in 1943. The British, the Americans, the European governments directly concerned are all baffled, puzzled, confused. Why has Russia found it difficult to co-operate with Britain and America in establishing a new government in Poland as called for in the Yalta agreement? What are Russia's problems, her handicaps, her internal pressure? Nobody on our side knows; Russia keeps these things from us. She allows for instance, a Russian ambassador to open an embassy in Czechoslovakia but refuses permission to Britain and the United States to send in their ambassadors. Yet the Yalta agreement specifically called for inter-Allied action and no unilateral steps in the liberated areas. Numerous instances of barriers to officials of Britain and United States could be cited as existing in other areas also under the Russian military command.

Candor Is Needed

What then can be done? The American government and the British government are frank and outspoken now about these matters. There is no need, of course, for swashbuckling talk or displays of temper but there is a great need for candor, for temperate criticism and for open discussion in the press.

The first thing to be done is to be practical on the economic side. American economic aid should not be frittered away as if it had nothing to do with other issues or the fulfillment of other agreements. There is no reason for arbitrary decisions or prejudgment of Russian motives or proposals. Her method of bargaining is hard, often inept from our point of view and even irritating, but it must be learned, and she must endeavor to learn our ways of thinking and the importance of what we term ideals. We may not be able to gain acceptance immediately for our ideals but this is no reason to disparage or abandon them as our goal.

A charter will be written here that Russia will accept. What is more important is the fulfillment of such a charter's provisions and the execution of agreements yet to be made with reference to Germany and Japan. For there is to be no peace conference or peace treaty in the 1919 sense. Special problems will be handled in special conferences over a period of years. Peacemaking is to be on a piecemeal basis until each problem is satisfactorily adjusted.

Different Language Tragedy

Meanwhile thoughtful Americans have a solemn duty. The tragedy of differing languages has been revealed here. Mr. Molotov does not speak English. None of the principals on our side speaks Russian. How can we ever begin to appeal to each other's minds and consciences? American universities and colleges should start at once courses in the study of the Russian language. The next American ambassador to Russia should know the language of Russia. Our State department should establish a division of Russian affairs with capable men and women on its staff.

The pride of M. Molotov in being able to preside over the plenary sesion and speak Russian from the platform was mentioned by him. Russia is having a rebirth of patriotism. She is feeling a new sense of power and this must inevitably bring a new sense of responsibility. But if ultimate war between Russia and the western world is to be prevented, no time must be lost in beginning the interchange of missions of officials, of businessmen, of labor leaders, or newspapermen, and of the best exponents of the spiritual and cultural life of the two countries. The gap that already separates Russia and the United States must be closed at the earliest possible moment or there inevitably will be chaos in Europe and ultimately another war of devastating proportions.

Russia, Already Huge, Still Seeks To Expand Area

By SAMUEL B. PETTENGILL

The following facts throw light on Russia's claim that she must have the east half of Poland for her own security. The figures given are prewar.

Russia has a land area of 8,173,550 square miles; Poland has 150,470 square miles. Russia is fifty-four times the size of Poland. The State of Texas would contain Poland with enough left over to accommodate all of New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts and Connecticut.

From east to west Russia is 6,500 miles long—a distance as great as from San Francisco to Berlin!

Russia is twice the size of all the rest of Europe. It has one-sixth of the land area of the globe. Poland has one-third of one percent. Russia is almost three times as large as continental United States.

The population of Russia is 170,467,000; that of Poland 35,000,000. Russia has twenty-one people to the square mile; Poland has 230. Poland's population pressure per square mile is eleven times that of Russia.

RUSSIA ADDS TO LAND AREA

Since the war started Russia has seized from Finland 16,000 square miles, or approximately one-half of Kentucky. She has completely absorbed Latvia with 20,056 square miles, or roughly the other half of Kentucky. She has taken over Lithuania 22,959 square miles, the size of West Virginia. She has taken over Estonia 18,353 square miles, and from Rumania has taken 19,300 square miles—the two nearly equalling the size of Ohio.

Omitting Poland for the moment, Russia has therefore added to her area land equal to Ohio, Kentucky and West Virginia.

By agreement with Hitler in September 1939 (which has now been substantially confirmed by Messrs. Churchill and Roosevelt) Russia has taken over from Poland 77,703 square miles—the equivalent of Nebraska.

The population taken from Poland is 12,775,000, which is about that of the state of New York.

The area of Czechoslovakia is 54,244 square miles—the size of Arkansas. Bulgaria has 39,825 square miles—the size of Virginia. Hungary has 35,875 square miles—the size of Indiana. Jugoslavia has 95,576 square miles—the size of Wyoming.

KOREA IS QUESTION MARK

These latter four, by the agreements at Yalta or Teheran, are apparently assigned to Russia's sphere of influence if not eventual incorporation into the Soviet empire.

Russia's direct and indirect conquests of territory, so far, as a result of the war, therefore equal the land area of Nebraska, Indiana, Ohio, Kentucky, West Virginia, Arkansas, Virginia and Wyoming.

All this added to a country three times the size of continental United States!

It is now wondered in Washington, as the next secret to be brought to light, if Russia has not also been promised a "free hand" in Korea with 85,246 square miles—the size of Utah, and in Manchuria, with 503,013 square miles—which is twice the size of Texas, or twice the size of France plus Italy.

Reams of pages have been written about the Curzon line in Poland. Regardless of all other considerations of justice and fair dealing, the Curzon line is not a mountain range or a broad river; it is not a natural military barrier. The claim that it is necessary to Russia's military "security" seems nothing but an excuse for Stalin's expanding real estate operations.

But justice to Poland can not be disregarded in building a "just and enduring peace." On that point, I quote the Polish-American priests of Detroit: "It is inconceivable to punish an ally for the contributions to victory. History never recorded such a case."

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

SAN FRANCISCO — Attended an international banquet being held in connection with the United Nations Conference. They said it was highly formal but everyone laughed when I walked in with my stovepipe hat—maybe I should have taken the damper out of it.

You know how all the important people are seated at the table "above the salt" . . . well, I stood up at a sideboard behind two bottles of horse radish. But that was better than one of the delegates did . . . his country was so small he didn't have a seat at the table . . . they stuck him over in the corner in a high chair.

The waiters maintained the international motif . . . if you gave a big tip they put an Italian Vermouth cocktail on the table . . . if it was small they just tossed a Russian Molotov cocktail under your chair.

The first course was oysters a la Rockefeller . . . and when I got my check I knew why they called them that. Then in honor of Russia the next course was bortsch . . . and I had quite a lot of trouble blasting the potato out of it . . . fortunately I had my niblick with me.

Conversation was held in many tongues, but I'm at home in lots of languages . . . in fact I've even been evicted from home in four of them.

The principal speaker insisted that honesty must be the keynote of the peace conference . . . he was very impressive . . . in fact for a minute I almost put the forks back.

The dinner ended with the drinking of a separate toast for each of the forty-four nations participating . . . Bulgaria and I went down together.

LISTEN, WORLD!

—By Elsie Robinson

(Registered U. S. Patent Office)

Feeling low?

So do I.

So does everyone I know, these days.

Partly, because of the war. Largely, because we've had to get out of our ruts . . . adapt new ways and viewpoints . . . create new programs. All of which is definitely a pain in the neck. How do I know? Because I'm that way myself. Time was when we used to sit back at 40 and take it easy in our rocking chairs. And wait for somebody to pin medals on our chests. Now, if you're not doing your stint at 60, you might as well be an enemy alien, shot at sunrise.

We used to have a lot of swell alibis in those days when you and I were kids. Remember "You can't pull yourself up by your own bootstraps?" Of all the infernal lies, that was the worst.

FOR THE ONLY WAY YOU CAN PULL YOURSELF UP IS BY YOUR OWN BOOTSTRAPS . . . BY THE FORCE AND FIRE YOU HAVE WITHIN YOURSELF.

No one else can do the job for you. You must go ahead on your own steam or you won't go ahead at all. Mom and Dad and Uncle Sam may give you opportunities, but if you haven't the power and hunger in your own self to seize them and make the most of them you're a dead pigeon.

And that's as powerful a truth in 1945 as it was in 1904. Thousands of lives went to waste once, waiting for a fairy godmother to come along and give them a boost. But the really great people, the solid and enduring people, supply their own boost. They don't wait for opportunities; they make 'em. They don't depend on the other fellow's advice; they follow their own hunches. Make mistakes? Of course they do.

But a mistake can prove as profitable as a success. It can wise you up more than a dozen victories. It can build a new determination in you, open a new horizon.

You CAN pull yourself up by your own bootstraps.

You don't have to strike a gold mine or get a doctor's degree. You can dig down into the resources within yourself and lift yourself by your own determination. You have all the makings, if you will use them. You may have lacked a proper environment and education, you may be devoid of "pull," but as long as you respect yourself and long to enlarge yourself you can do so, by pulling on your own bootstraps.

I'm saying this because so many of us are discouraged now, particularly those of us who have passed our first youth. We watch the blazing scene around us and long to be part of it, but we think we've lost our chance.

No man on earth has lost his chance if his heart still hungers for a new trial . . . If he's still willing to face a new adventure. And that means you!

Petting Is Not Only Resource For Teen-agers

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Teen-agers are notoriously fussy about anything handed out to them as behaviour-suggestions. So, Dr. Anna O. Stephens, of Pennsylvania State college, is to be congratulated for handling the subject sensibly and not without a dash of humor.

She tells girls if they're going on a double date, to "be sure the other girl is in sympathy with your point of view." In other words if a girl knows where to draw the line in petting, it's not well to share a double date with a wild bird who doesn't know where to stop. And this hint is followed up by suggesting it's a good idea to think of something interesting to do.

Girl Has Upper Hand

Talk for a whole evening, if you hardly know the boy, is a dull program, nor can you expect the boy to have all the ideas. And here's a good way to negotiate the maiden craft between Scylla and Charybdis. When a girl feels a situation is getting out of hand, she should prevent it before it occurs. After seeing a sexy movie, for instance, it's better to go eat with the crowd rather than go for a ride by yourselves.

Any girl with her wits about her has the upper hand of a situation. Don't lead your date on and on and then wonder what'e the matter with him. And if you must put him in his place, do it kindly. Take the blame on yourself. Perhaps you don't realize the amount of glamour you possess; indeed, you may be more devastating than you think. And if you do exert such a spell, you can afford to be gracious.

Invite Boy to Home

Don't forget to give the boy a second chance if you like him. Maybe you could even invite him to something you'd planned, just to show you don't hold a grulge. Of course, if it happens the second time, you'll have to decide if it's worth the trouble.

It's always a good idea to invite a date if you happen to like him and think he's worth cultivating, to your home. Good for him to know a girl has a background of home and family. Even if this knowledge doesn't lead to the march down the middle aisle, it lays a solid foundation for friendship, and life is a good deal happier for girls, these days, if they have plenty of boy friends, even if the friend does not mature into a fiance.

Soldier Is Served Delicacies at Front

Pvt. Donald H. Ringler, 651 Baker street, son of Mrs. Reba Ringler, had delicacies like cherry pie, steak and fresh fried eggs served to him in the line when three cooks recently went up with the riflemen to the Fifth army front in Italy, according to an overseas dispatch.

The platoon, an outfit in the Ninety-first "Powder River" division, saw plenty of action at the time. While German shells, rockets and small arms plastered the area, the cooks plied their art from rations brought up by mule pack.

"It was the best chow we ever had on the line," was Pvt. Ringler's estimate of the three cooks' efforts to "feed 'em while they fight."

Wiley Ford Man Held For Vagrancy Is Told To Return to Work

Raymond Giles, who gave his address to police as Wiley Ford, W. Va., received a suspended sentence of ninety days in the Maryland House of Correction at a hearing before Magistrate Frank A. Perdew in trial magistrates court Monday on a charge of vagrancy.

Giles, arrested yesterday morning at 6:35 a. m. by Lt. James E. Van and E. C. Woods, said he had been working at Kline's dairy farm in nearby West Virginia.

Magistrate Perdew suspended sentence on condition that Giles return to his work on the dairy farm and stay away from Cumberland unless on business. Giles served a sentence in the house of correction about a year ago on the same charge, authorities were told.

Eisenhower Warns Nazi Commanders

Doughboys Drive Close to Davao

By FRED HAMPSON

MANILA, Tuesday, May 1. (AP)—Twenty-fourth division doughboys swept up the western coast of Davao gulf Sunday to within seventeen miles of Davao, one of the best ports of the Philippines, Gen. Douglas MacArthur reported today.

Resistance on this southern approach to the big Mindanao harbor was described as "disorganized." The Yanks overran an elaborate system of antiaircraft positions and coastal defense installations with their guns intact.

Meantime, guerillas seized Talikud island, a five-mile-long island in Davao gulf about fifteen miles southwest of the harbor.

P-T boats, darting swiftly into the bay, again shelled shore positions.

On Northern Luzor, the Thirty-seventh division, which helped take Baguio Friday, pushed five miles north to seize La Trinidad, where the Japanese once had a large concentration camp for Americans and other United Nations nationals.

The Thirty-third division, meantime, drove east and south to secure the enemy strongpoint at Topside and the Loacan airfield.

Japanese resistance in the area has practically ceased, MacArthur reported.

2,500 Income Tax Cases Probed

WASHINGTON, May 1 (AP) — Twenty-five hundred cases of reported income tax evasion by black marketers and others are now under investigation, the treasury announced tonight.

War contractors "figure in several large cases," it was stated. No indictments were announced, but criminal prosecutions and assessments of millions of dollars in taxes and penalties are expected to grow out of the anti-evasion drive being conducted by sixty treasury agents.

Cases involving a manufacturing concern, a wholesaler, and a jewelry store were described without naming the companies. One of the cases was said to involve $2,000,000 in additional taxes and penalties.

United Nations Post Looms for Eisenhower

SAN FRANCISCO, May 1—(AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower is being discussed here, among many others, as the possible future secretary general of a United Nations organization.

The Canadian ambassador to the United States, L. B. Pearson told reporters today that Eisenhower is his personal choice.

Austrian Government Ignored by U. S.

WASHINGTON, May 1—(AP)—The United States government does not recognize the provisional government reported to have been established in Austria under Dr. Karl Renner, the State department said today.

At the department, Acting Secretary Grew said the whole question is being taken up with the government of Soviet Russia, whose troops now occupy Vienna.

French Communists Sweep Election

PARIS, May 1—(AP)—The Communist party won a sweeping victory in Monday's French municipal elections, the tabulation of more than 15,000,000 votes showed today, but political analysists were cautious about conceding that the nation as a whole had "gone Communist."

The trend toward the leftist movement, however, was undeniable.

Soldier with One Leg Eyes Gridiron

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., May 1—(AP)—A one-legged army sergeant may be playing football for Pennsylvania State college this fall.

Sgt. Johnny Schroyer, who lost his right leg in a German prison camp but not his ambition to return to the gridiron, wants to get back into the game.

"There's one thing sure," Coach Bob Higgins said today, "he has the coach rooting for him."

Johnny recently wrote Higgins from Atlantic City's England General hospital:

"What are my chances of playing football again? I love the game too much to give it up without a try."

Commenting that he "hopes all my future players possess as much courage as Schroyer," Higgins said:

"I don't know too much about artificial limbs but if the army does a good job in fitting him with one and Johnny can accommodate himself quickly, he may play football again.

"Johnny was a blocking back when he last played for me in 1942 but apparently he is willing to return to the line when he rejoins the squad. Our inside tackle doesn't run very much so that may be the spot for him to try."

The sergeant, a native of Connellsville and former high school running mate of Notre Dame's Johnny Lujack, says he is in condition now—all he needs is the new leg.

He was wounded at Anzio; captured by the Germans and repatriated after his leg was amputated.

New York City's subway system is the largest passenger-carrying railroad in the world, 5,716,000 fares being collected every day as 7,000 trains speed over 740 miles of subterranean track.

The Fort Hill High Sentinels, launching their 1945 Bi-State Interscholastic Baseball Conference campaign yesterday at Frostburg, rallied for three runs in the seventh inning to edge out Beall High's Mountaineers, 3-2, and tie the Allegany High Campers for the lead.

The LaSalle-Hyndman tilt scheduled for Hyndman, Pa., was postponed on account of cold and threatening weather and Brother Justin, Explorers' coach, said last night that the tilt had been rescheduled for this afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Only two of the five runs scored at Frostburg were driven in. A wild throw by Beall Catcher Ben Hughes in the seventh enabled Fort Hill base runners to tally the tying and winning runs.

The Sentinels, ehind 2-0 entering the closing frame, pulled the game out of the fire on three hits and Hughes's error. Fort Hill hadn't made a scoring threat for six frames but came to life in the seventh with John Brown touching off the rally with a single to left.

Vernon Penner drove out a bingle to right and advanced to second on the throw-in. Darl "Ace" Jewell, who went the route for the Hilltoppers, singled to score Brown and moved to second on the play at home.

On a squeeze play attempt, Penner was trapped between third and home but Ben Hughes uncorked a wild throw and Penner and Jewell came in with the tying and winning markers.

John Workman, the conference's No. 1 pitcher last season, suffered his first defeat of the season. He and Jewell each allowed five hits with Jim Hughes, Beall shortstop, the only player with more than one safety. Jewell struck out twelve and Workman fanned six.

Beall, seeking its second straight conference victory, took a 1-0 lead in the first on Jim Hughes's single and overthrows of second and third, and added its other run in the third when Jim Hughes doubled, stole second and scored after the catch of Tom Dunn's fly to right field.

Frank Niland or Pat Creegan will work on the mound for LaSalle today with Tommy Geatz going to right field, Brother Justin said last night. Geatz will be the starting hurler for the Explorers in Friday's LaSalle-Fort Hill clash on the latter's diamond. John Waltman will probably do the elbowing for Lloyd Keller's Hyndman crew. Red Sox Capture Fourth Straight

BOSTON, May 1—(AP)—With Manager Joe Cronin and his crutches parked on their bench, the Boston Red Sox today won their fourth straight by breaking their Johnny Niggeling jinx while defeating the Washington Senators, 5-4.

It was the Sockers' first triumph over Knuckelballer Niggeling since 1942, when he was with the St. Louis Browns.

Emmett O'Neill, the rangy right-hander, held the Senators to four hits, three of which were made by George Binks, who drove in all of the Washington runs.

O'Neill was yanked when he passed three batters with one out in the eighth and Pinky Woods came in to retire the side.

Skeeter Newsome drove in three of the Boston runs and Leon Culberson collected three two-baggers. The box:

Pitcher Whit Wyatt Will Join Phillies

BUCHANAN, Ga., May 1 (AP) — Whitlow Wyatt, veteran National League pitcher sold by Brooklyn to Philadelphia this spring, left here today to join the Phillies.

Walker Cooper To Join Feller At Great Lakes

ST. LOUIS, May 1—(AP)—"Hey, Bobby Feller, here comes another good ballplayer.

Walker Cooper, great catcher and team captain of the world champion St. Louis Cardinals, was inducted into the navy today at Jefferson barracks and is headed for Great Lakes, Ill., naval training station.

Walker, who thought he was through with baseball and headed for the army for the duration, found he had a choice of services and he didn't hesitate in choosing the seagoing branch.

At Great Lakes, Feller, former Cleveland ace, has assembled one of the finest service teams in the country, loaded with former major league stars. Cooper's choice probably won't be bad news to the fireball king who pitched to Walker during one exhibition tour.

The husky Cardinal star has been the mainstay of three championship teams in St. Louis. In all three years he has been overshadowed individually for "most valuable player" honors. First it was his big brother Morton, then Outfielder Stan Musial and last year Shortstop Marty Marion. But there has been little doubt among close observers of the club that Cooper was a major factor in guiding wartime pitchers past the 100-victory mark in all three years.

Walker said goodbye to the Cardinals last Thursday before they left on their current road trip. He enters the service with a contract agreement still pending before baseball's high authorities. He and Mort wanted a $3,000 raise on their $12,000 contracts this season.

They took their case to Leslie M. O'Connor, of the Baseball Advisory committee. He has the facts but no official action has been taken.

Cooper's home is in Webster Groves, Mo., a St. Louis suburb.

Jim Roby Stars With Middie Ten

The softball team composed of American sailors stationed in Australia, "proved their class," by defeating the Australian All-Star team, 3 to 1, according to a clipping sent by James M. Roby, radioman 3-c, to his wife Mrs. Audrey Roby, 211 South street.

According to the Australian paper, "the teamwork of the American navy was well worthy of emulation; their backing up in defense was a revelation; and James Roby on first base was among the strongest infielders the Americans have shown."

In his letter to his wife, Roby wrote he had never been photographed so much, and was enthusiastic in his praise of the Australians, who he wrote, "in their enthusiasm treated the Americans as though they were in the big leagues." He also wrote that all during the game an announcer over a loud speaker explained the differences in the American and Australian game. At the end of the game the navy boys were presented a large silver cup with their names inscribed on it.

Prior to entering the service in August, 1943, Roby pitched for the Lacy Delicatets when they won the city championship in 1940, 1941 and 1942.

Righthander Blanks Detroit 5-0 To Keep Pale Hose in Lead

DETROIT, May 1. (AP)—Righthander Joe Haynes, pitching one of the finest games in the major leagues this season, shut out the Detroit Tigers, 5 to 0, on one hit today to keep the Chicago White Sox in first place in the American League.

Haynes faced only twenty-eight batsmen in recording his near-perfect game, spoiled only by a clean single over second base in the third inning by ex-White Sox Infielder Jimmy (Skeeter) Webb. No other Tiger reached first.

The Sox meanwhile knocked out Rookie Walter Wilson, Detroit starting pitcher, in the sixth with their fourth extra base hit of the game. Wilson gave five hits and Leslie Mueller, his successor, allowed one in three innings.

Roy Schalk, Chicago second baseman, drove in three runs with a triple and single in three times at bat. The box:

Eagle Tossers Seek Practice Contests

The F. O. Eagles, of the Rocking Chair Softball League, will practice this evening at 6 o'clock at Community park, it was announced last night by "Sparky" Chisholm, coach and manager.

Chisholm hopes to arrange a couple of practice games before the opening of the league season next week. Teams interested should call Chisholm at 3357-J after 6 p. m.

"Happy" Chandler Tells of Postwar Baseball Plans

ST. LOUIS, May 1 (AP) —Sen. A. B. "Happy" Chandler, who has only to sign his contract to become the nation's new baseball commissioner, disclosed today his plans for carrying baseball "back to the country" to capitalize on "the tremendous sports boom we will have after the war."

In his first press conference since his election to the commissioners' post a week ago he asserted baseball has two immediate responsibilities:

1. "We must provide some place for baseball's war veterans to play. We are obligated to find jobs for them."

2. Thousands of players have been wounded and will need rehabilitating and they ought to be able to see baseball games."

Chandler's proposal is to locate leagues in the vicinity of government hospitals and in high schools and colleges.

"We'll have lots of opportunities to discover new baseball talent," he said.

Chandler was here to attend the American League pennant raising ceremonies of the St. Louis Browns.

As to baseball's present status, Chandler said he talked with President Truman a few days ago just before leaving Washington and "I came away with the impression the president thought baseball had justified its right to continue for the duration."

He said he had been told of instances in which baseball players classified 4-F had been inducted into the armed services just because they were ball players through abuse of authority by some draft board officials.

"I have informed President Truman of this," he declared.

Chandler, who said he attends every Kentucky derby but few other racing events, told reporters he did not expect to be confronted with organized betting in baseball.

Hospitalized Servicemen Will Appear on Radio

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, May 1—In co-operation with army, navy, the Red Cross and industry, the BLUE is introducing a new Wednesday night series at 9 as "The Road Ahead." It is presented on behalf of hospitalized servicemen.

Under the M. C.-ing of Clifton Fadiman and the co-operation of David Brockman's orchestra, each program is to originate from a different military hospital, with provision made that the men themselves join in a part of the program for a discussion of their future plans. There will be special guests, too, starting with Ann Sheridan and Bob Hope, Hope to be cut in from Hollywood. A different industry will act as host each week.

Billie Burke, who meantime is continuing her Saturday morning CBS series, has another broadcast each week, at 8:30 p. m. on NBC Wednesdays in the old Henny Youngman spot. As Mrs. Featherstone, she plays the role of a mother-in-law who injects her personality and fluttering voice into the lives of her daughter and husband.

NBC at 12:30 p. m. has inserted a fifteen-minute Pacific pickup in which commentators from the various areas to be heard. The program is running Monday through Fridays.

To butter bread crumbs, heat butter in a heavy skillet, add crumbs and stir briskly until the butter is absorbed.

When beating egg whites, make a little more by adding ¼ teaspoonful of cold water and a pinch of salt for each egg white before beating.

Profit Taking Hits Stock Market, But Assorted Issues Prove Strong

By VICTOR EUBANK

NEW YORK, May 1 (AP) — Stocks generally suffered a profit taking decline in today's market and, while assorted issues in the peace category put up fair resistance, leading rails, steels, aircrafts and coppers were under pressure.

The approach of victory in Europe with possible economic unsettlement in a number of war-benefitted lines, together with the lengthy climb of the averages to eight-year-peaks, inspired the trimming of accounts.

Transfers for the full proceedings totalled 1,530,000 compared with 1,500,000 Monday.

Conspicuous casualties included Sante Fe, Southern Pacific, Northern Pacific, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, U. S. Rubber, Montgomery Ward, Kennecott, Radio Corp., International Telephone, Douglas Aircraft, United Aircraft, Studebaker, Eastman Kodak and North American. Heavy buying of Willys-Overland in the last quarter hour lifted this stock 2¼ points to a new 1945 top. Modest gainers were Standard Oil (NJ), helped by an extra and usual dividend; General Motors, Goodyear, Westinghouse and Philip Morris.

Among strong Curb movers were Textron and Illinois Power on the offside were E. W. Bliss, Cities Service and Pantepec. Turnover here was 360,000 shares versus 410,000 yesterday.

The bond market was irregular with most activity concentrated in railroad issues.

Sales for the day totaled $14,900,000 compared with $17,300,000 yesterday, one of the busiest days of the year to date.

Enclosed Baltimore Stadium Recommended

BALTIMORE, May 1 (AP)—Construction at the earliest possible time of a completely enclosed multiple-purpose stadium seating around 100,000 persons was recommended today to Mayor Theodore R. McKeldin by the Baltimore General Stadium Committee.

Charles P. McCormick, committee chairman, declaring that the enclosed stadium would be a radical departure from present arenas, said it would permit baseball, football and other sports in any kind of weather and would permit Baltimore to bid for one of the annual New Year's "bowl games."

The report, drawn by a civic committee appointed after Oriole baseball park was burned down last year and the International League club moved into Municipal stadium, recommended that some other site than the huge Thirty-third street bowl be found for the proposed sports center.

Local Businessmen Urged To Provide Vocational Advice

Vets Need Professional Help in Finding Jobs, Gilchrist States

Cumberland's leading businessmen should form a voluntary vocational guidance service to help discharged county servicemen find the right kind of jobs when they come home, C. William Gilchrist, local attorney, said yesterday.

Gilchrist addressed the weekly luncheon meeting of the Cumberland Rotary Club at Central YMCA at 12:15 p. m. yesterday.

Warning that servicemen don't want to be pitied or pampered, the speaker said that what they want most is to be helped back into a normal civilian life.

Cites Altoona Plan

He cited a plan which is working successfully in Altoona, Pa., where the leading business and professional men of Blair county asked the department of psychology at Pennsylvania State college to give them a practical course in vocational guidance. After seven weeks of training, the men organized a voluntary counseling service for returned veterans, drawing upon their wide knowledge of business conditions and employment opportunities in the county to find suitable jobs for the discharged servicemen.

"In handling veterans they have learned they have a tough problem on their hands," Gilchrist said. "A few are antagonistic to civilians, others are high strung and irritable. Most of them are ill at ease, but we must remember it is a terrific strain to move from a life run by bugles and superior officers to normal civilian life."

When a boy comes into the Altoona headquarters, he is met by a receptionist who takes a brief record of his background and then introduces him to the counselor on duty who seems best qualified to give him advice, the speaker said. At the present time each counselor serves a half day about every six weeks, but after demobilization comes each will serve a half day every two weeks.

Special Counseling Given

The counselor's job is to supply the boy with facts which will make it possible for him to make an intelligent decision regarding the type of work he wants to get into, Gilchrist said. One of the basic principles of the Altoona plan is to provide specialized counseling if a soldier's aptitude and interests point to a particular field, he said, adding that this device has saved the veterans from making mistakes and wasting time in finding their place in civilian life.

"Three government bureaus are actually fighting tooth and nail over who is going to do something for the returning veteran," he said. "But, actually, the only towns in this country where things are really being done are those where the folks at home are doing it themselves."

Praising the management of the Celanese plant for surveying jobs there in order to be able to place handicapped veterans who come to the plant for employment, Gilchrist said that all Cumberland businessmen should co-operate to make an effective plan for the vocational guidance of discharged servicemen.

COMPLETES PATROLS—Kenneth Keefer, ship's cook first class, son of Mrs. Ruth L. Keefer, 936 Gay street, Cumberland, recently reported to the United States Submarine Base at New London, Conn., after completing several successful war patrols aboard United States Submarines in the Pacific. Keefer, who is 30 years old, joined the navy in August 1942 and volunteered immediately for submarine duty. He is an authorized wearer of the submarine combat insignia with two gold stars. Now assigned to a new submarine, Keefer will be a key man in the crew because of his combat experience.

Husband Accuses Wife of Trying To Defraud Him

Charging that an attempt is being made to defraud him of his interest in local real estate, money and securities, Richard Simmons, Cumberland, filed suit in circuit court yesterday against his wife, Mrs. Sofia R. Simmons, and her daughter, Edith Currence.

Simmons asserted he and his wife purchased properties located at 22 and 24 Bedford street in 1941 for $6,000, paying more than half of the amount in cash. They also purchased property located at 217, 219, 221 and 223 Elder street for $3,200, payments being made in monthly intallments from the earnings of both Simmons and his wife, he said.

Explaining that he has been regularly employed, Simmons stated that he has been turning his earnings over to his wife. He added that as a result of the accumulation of his savings, Mrs. Simmons placed them in an account in a local bank and likewise purchased bonds and other securities which she has placed in her name in the same bank.

Placed in Her Name

When the properties were purchased, Simmons related, they were placed in the name of his wife so she could handle them in his absence. He declared, however, that it was agreed and understood that the properties and money in the bank would be held by them jointly.

Simmons charged that his wife deposited both his and her earnings in her name. He added that she also has obtained a safe deposit box in another local bank in the name of herself and her daughter, and has deposited there securities and other assets to which he has a claim.

The complainant charged that he believes the defendants are attempting to hold the money, securities and real estate with the "intention of defrauding" him of his rightful interest.

Restraining Order Signed

Simmons asked the court to declare that his wife is holding the real estate as trustee for herself and him as joint owners, and asked that the defendant be declared to be holding as trustee for herself and him the account in one bank and the contents of the safe deposit box in the other bank.

Chief Judge William A. Huster signed an order restraining Mrs. Simmons and her daughter from withdrawing the account in the former's name at one bank, and from withdrawing the contents of the safe deposit box at the other bank pending a hearing.

Edward J. Ryan is attorney for Simmons.

Former Resident Dies in Action In Pacific Area

Casualties reports for this county include the name of Ensign James Richard Vilsack, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert A. Vilsack, Pittsburgh, former Braddock road residents, who was killed in the Pacific area.

Ensign Vilsack, who served as a pilot in the navy air wing, has been overseas since March 25. He graduated from Central Catholic high school, Pittsburgh, and was attending Carnegie institute when he enlisted.

Pfc. Watson H. Bennett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Bennett, 415 Baltimore avenue, was wounded in Germany April 16.

A former Celanese employee, he entered the army in July, 1941 and has been overseas seventeen months.

A brother, Cpl. Thomas E. Bennett, was wounded on Luzon, the Philippines, February 20.

Cpl. George C. DeHaven, husband of Mrs. Margaret DeHaven, Corriganville, holds the Purple Heart and is now hospitalized in England for wounds received while in action with the Third army in Luxembourg January 23.

A former Celanese employee and proprietor of a tavern in Corriganville, Cpl. DeHaven has been in the army two years. He has sent his Purple Heart home.

Several Persons Are Quizzed Concerning Nelson Murder Case

Several additional persons were questioned by Detective Lt. R. Emmett Flynn at Police headquarters Monday evening in connection with the murder of Robert O. Nelson, Sr., 48, of 426 Greene street, who died in Allegany hospital April 18 as a result of being brutally slugged with a miniature baseball bat on West Side school playground the night before.

Scores of persons have been questioned in connection with the unsolved murder which police describe as "puzzling". Although the trail leading to the unknown assailant of the Western Maryland Railway brakeman has been "warm" on several occasions, the murderer's identity, as well as the mysterious woman who is being sought in the case, is still unknown.

Still unclaimed is the $100 reward offered by Cumberland Lodge No. 271, Loyal Order of Moose, for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the person responsible for Nelson's death.

Lt. Wayne George, B-17 Bombardier, Is Home on Leave

Lt. H. Wayne George, a veteran of thirty-five combat missions in the European area, returned Monday evening to spend a twenty-one day leave with his wife, Mrs. Dorothy Winters George, and his 2-year-old son, Gary Wayne George, 305 Paca street.

Lt. George, who has served nine months overseas as bombardier on a B-17 Flying Fortress, has been stationed in England with a heavy bombardment group. He will report to Miami Beach, Fla., May 24 for assignment.

The local flier, uninjured during his hazardous service, was cited for saving the life of a member of his crew who was seriously wounded during a raid over Berlin October 6, 1944.

After Lt. George released his bombs over the assigned target, according to the citation, he immediately went to the assistance of a waist gunner from Waco, Texas, who was seriously wounded in both legs by flak.

First aid, promptly and skilfully applied, undoubtedly saved the life of the gunner, the citation added.

The local flier wears the air medal with six clusters and presidential citation ribbons for participation in various combat missions.

The unit to which he was attached was awarded four presidential citations. While Lt. George was with the group it was awarded a presidential citation for the successful bombing of Frankfort. The group was also honored for leading the first daylight raid over Berlin.

Lt. George, who was formerly associated with his brother, Charles L. George, local funeral director, was promoted to first lieutenant in the army air forces February 8.

Road Treatment Program To Get Underway May 16

Chaires Says Four State Roads in County Are on Schedule

The spring and summer surface treatment of state roads in Allegany, Garrett, Washington and Frederick counties will get under way Wednesday, May 16, G. Bates Chaires, district roads engineer announced yesterday.

Chaires made the announcement after a meeting of state officials of the four Western Maryland counties comprising the district, at his office yesterday afternoon.

The program will start in Washington county on May 16, Chaires said, and then will cover Frederick county state roads. The work in Allegany county probably will start the latter part of June with Garrett county roads scheduled to wind up the treatment program.

In Allegany county, Chaires said, roads to be tarred and chipped include Bedford road, Route 40 east of Cumberland, McMullen highway and Mt. Savage road.

The work, he stated, is a sealing-up process designed to seal the roads against the elements and provide a wearing course. He added that he hopes the work in the four counties will be completed by September 1 and the onset of bad weather.

Chaires said about one-half million gallons of asphalt and 15,000 tons of stone will be used in the work. About one-third of a gallon of asphalt and thirty pounds of stone per square yard are used in the surface treatment job, he added.

The meeting yesterday was the first called by Chaires since he became district engineer succeeding the late Leo T. Downey. He said the method of handling the roads program in the future was discussed.

Ten Women Named To OPA Food Panel

A food panel group of ten volunteers has been selected to review and process applications for home canning sugar, Harry A. Porch, chairman of the local War Price and Rationing Board, announced yesterday.

The members include Mrs. Holmes H. Cessna, chairman; Mrs. A. A. Astil, Mrs. Thomas Jones, Mrs. William Pitzer, Mrs. Henry W. Price, Mrs. Charles A. Richards, Mrs. J. E. Tritt, Mrs. Caleb J. White, Mrs. Edgar D Vandegrift, and Mrs. C. N. Wilkinson.

Stating that approximately 20,000 applications for canning sugar were handled by the local board last year, Porch said that less than fifty applications have been received so far, although a similar total is expected this year. He added that the new food panel will meet as often as is necessary to process the applications, stating that a schedule of meetings is being worked out.

Application forms are available both at the local board, 111 Union street, and at the various homemakers' clubs in the Cumberland area. There is no deadline for mailing in the applications.

Pointing out that only fifteen pounds of home canning sugar may be granted to one person in a family, instead of the twenty pounds per person originally announced by the OPA, Porch said that processing of the applications will be delayed to a certain extent until new regulations are issued from Washington regarding allotment of the sugar.

CIRCUIT COURT WILL HEAR UHL, WAINGOLD CASE

The case of Russell Uhl, Mt. Savage, against Benjamin Waingold and others, charging false arrest, will be heard in circuit court at 9 a. m. Monday. The administrators of Waingold's estate were named defendants after Waingold's death.

F. Brooke Whiting and William M. Somerville represent the defendants; Edward J. Ryan represents Uhl.

Other cases include that of William J. Donahue, represented by Ryan, against the Consolidation Coal Company, represented by William A. Gunter; Michael A. Condon, represented by Ryan, against the Kelly-Springfield Engineering Company, represented by William S. Jenkins; William Morton, represented by Estel C. Kelly and Ryan, against the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company, represented by Horace P. Whitworth; Elmer L. Moomaw, represented by D. Lindley Sloan, against the Seaboard Freight Lines, Inc., represented by Gunter.

Cases removed from Washington county include that of Gerald H. Barnhart and Grace Barnhart, represented by Whiting, and Ann Elizabeth Whitmer and Norman Whitmer, represented by Martin V. B. Bostetter, and that of Alice B. Cramer against Ann Elizabeth Whitmer. Both are property line and trespassing disputes.

Proper Use of Air Mail Stamps Is Explained

Air mail stamps should not be used on ordinary letters, Maurice E. Robinette, superintendent of mails, said yesterday.

Robinette pointed out that although there is no air mail service between Cumberland and Baltimore, letters with air mail stamps, addressed to Baltimore, have been mailed recently at the post office here.

The superintendent of mails also warned that ordinary letters on which only three cents' postage is paid must not be mailed in air mail envelopes. In such cases the letters are returned to the senders, causing unnecessary delay in delivery, he said.

Driving Bus and Patrolling Beat Made Him Sleepy, Wilson Testifies

Police Officer Asks Civil Service Board To Reduce Suspension

Driving a bus from Wiley Ford to the Celanese plant during the hours he was not patrolling a beat was the reason given by Officer Edward P. Wilson, of the Cumberland Police Department, for falling "fast asleep" in a local taxi office while on active duty on the morning of April 8.

Patrolman Wilson revealed this fact during an appeal hearing on a sixty-day suspension before the city civil service commission last evening in the city hall council chamber.

The police officer admitted the charges preferred by Chief of Police Oscar A. Eyerman and appealed to the board for a reduction in the penalty.

According to the charges as read at the hearing by Samuel E. Grininger, clerk to the board, Wilson was guilty of being found "fast asleep" for thirty minutes or more on April 8 at 3:15 a. m. while on active duty. He also was charged with "gross neglect of duty" and "failure to perform his duty as an officer of the department."

Suspended on April 9 by Eyerman, Wilson appealed to Commissioner James Orr, who upheld the action of the chief of police.

Officer Admits Charges

"You don't deny you were asleep on duty?" Charles Z. Heskett, city attorney, asked the officer.

"No," Officer Wilson replied.

Lt. James E. Van testified that the working hours of Wilson's platoon are 1 a. m. to 9 a. m., and that he and City Detective Edwin R. Lilya, who is now attending the FBI school in Washington, D. C., found Wilson "fast asleep" in the 71 taxi office, South Front street, at 3:15 a. m. on April 8. They didn't rouse Wilson immediately, Lt. Van said but returned at about a half hour later and woke up the sleeping officer.

"Did Wilson say he was sick?" Heskett inquired.

"No," Lt. Van answered, "He did say, however, that he was tired."

Recalls Other Suspensions

Chief Eyerman related that he suspended Officer Wilson sixty days after receiving the report from Lt. Van. He also said that Wilson "did time" in 1942 for neglect of duty, citing that the officer was on duty at a club on North Centre street where a fight broke out and no arrests were made. On that occasion, Wilson was given a thirty-day suspension, Eyerman declared, adding that the officer served only part of the time as a result of the commissioner reducing the penalty.

Eyerman cited another instance which brought about a three-day suspension for Wilson. The chief pointed out that the department has a ruling which provides that members leave their addresses and telephone numbers with the desk sergeant. He stated that Wilson had moved three or four weeks before notifying the sergeant of his change in address. The chief said he also had received complaints about Wilson's failure to make calls within the prescribed time.

H. Clifford Spiker, chairman of the civil service board, asked: "Is it the general rule to give an officer thirty days the first time he is caught asleep?" Chief Eyerman replied in the negative, adding that a half hour is a long time for a officer to sleep while on duty and is "mighty serious."

Lt. Van stated that the sergeant at headquarters reported Wilson's call at 3:10 a. m. the morning the latter was found asleep. He fixed the time about 3:40 when he and Lilya woke the officer from his slumber.

Says He Was Fired

After taking the stand, Patrolman Wilson said he made his call about 3:05 a. m. from Polk and Independence street, walked to the taxi office Union and Front streets to go to a rest room, sat down on a chair and fell asleep. He stated he was tired after driving a bus that day from Wiley Ford to the Celanese plant and admitted to Heskett that he was wrong in sleeping while on duty. All that he asked, he said, was that the time of his suspension be "cut down."

"Is Wilson the first officer caught asleep?" Spiker asked, to which Lt. Van answered: "We've caught some other officers dozing occasionally but this is Wilson's first offense. Other officers were warned."

Edward W. Valentine, B. & O. watchman at the Baltimore street crossing, who testified as a witness for Wilson, said he was talking to the officer between 3:10 and 3:15 a. m. at the watch box on the morning Wilson was found asleep.

Spiker questioned Lt. Van as to why Wilson was not warned like other officers when he was found sleeping. The police lieutenant admitted Wilson was not warned but he was warned on other matters.

The commission chairman asked Wilson if he drove a bus and the officer answered in the affirmative, stating that he drove occasionally when the regular driver was off duty. He said he operated the bus on such occasions at 2 p. m. and 10 p. m.

To Give Up Franchise

J. Phil Jolley, board member, asked Wilson if he felt that broken rest periods was good for a man his age, to which the officer answered that he is planning to give up the bus franchise which he now holds.

Chief Eyerman said that Wilson had been warned that he couldn't handle two jobs and get his regular rest and said the patrolman should either get off the police department or give up the bus franchise.

Chairman Spiker stated after the hearing that the board will likely give a decision in the case at its next meeting to be held Monday, May 7, in city hall.

Few Maryland Veterans Paid Under GI Bill

BALTIMORE, May 1—(AP)—A very small percentage of Maryland's discharged veterans of World War II are receiving readjustment allowance payments as provided by the GI Bill of Rights, the State Unemployment Compensation Board disclosed today.

Board Director Stephen C. Cromwell said that a recent survey by the adjustment agent for the veterans administration in the state showed that during the first quarter of this year less than two per cent of the new registrants were being paid.

Allegany, Garrett Surveyed

The survey was conducted in the Baltimore area and Garrett and Allegany counties in Western Maryland, Cromwell said, since those two areas represented more than eighty per cent of the registered World War II veterans in the state.

In the Baltimore city area, he continued, the average number of new registrants (with the United States Employment Service) for January, February and March approximated 14,000 monthly. The average number paid was seventy-two each month with each veteran receiving about two checks per month.

The average number of new registrants reported in the Western Maryland area was 260, Cromwell said. The average number paid was 105 with each veteran receiving about three checks per month.

These two areas also represent about eighty-eight and one-half per cent of the veterans who are receiving one or more payments, the state director said.

Job Opportunities Differ

He attributed the difference between the two areas in ration of number registered and number paid to the differences in existing job opportunities. Baltimore city is rated by the war manpower commission as a number one area with respect to labor needs, he added, whereas Western Maryland was rated number four.

An analysis of individuals checked showed that about forty-four of every fifty were discharged because of service connected disabilities, which precluded their eligibility for all types of work.

Cromwell said these figures by no means accounted for all discharged veterans, since many in the rest of the state as well as in the areas surveyed have found jobs for themselves, are attending school or have made some other plan and have not registered with the employment service.

Dick Continues Attack on Liquor Law in County

Delegate Criticises Enforcement and Qualifications of Applicants

Continuing his attack on the Allegany county alcoholic beverages law, Delegate J. Milton Dick (R-Allegany) charged yesterday that it "lacks proper enforcement and tends toward flagrant violations."

Dick, unsuccessful sponsor of a bill establishing a liquor control board in the county at the last session of the legislature, disclosed Monday that a case to test the legality of the act will be filed in circuit court within two weeks.

He charged that the local act is in violation of the state constitution and said a "fight to the finish" will be waged in an effort to remove alcoholic beverage control from the courts.

Sufficient funds are available through the Allegany County Committee for Equal Rights, Dick declared, to carry the fight to the "United States Supreme Court if necessary."

Fought Changes at First

The county legislator asserted that he fought any changes in the local act at 1935 and 1937 sessions of the legislature because he was "duped" by liquor dealers, but added that after 1937 he became associated with a brewery firm as field representative in charge of sales and was "able to observe first hand" the application of liquor laws in nine states.

After several months of travel "I began to realize what a terrible set-up we have in this county," the legislator exclaimed.

Dick explained that his headquarters was located in Hagerstown and "knowing members of the alcoholic control board in Washington county, I made a close study of the set-up there and compared it with the local law."

Praises Washington County Board

Dick said, "What makes the Washington county set-up outstanding is this: They have a good board and rigid enforcement. No liquor is sold by any person holding only a beer license. They don't make fish of one and flesh of another when it comes to punishment. They pay through the nose."

The Washington county board, Dick declared, "treats every applicant as an American citizen. If he has the proper character and location and good old Uncle Sam's dough, he can get a license. In other words, there is no monopoly, no inducement for chiseling."

More than 250 alcoholic beverage licenses were issued Monday following hearings in circuit court, and Dick declared he was "very much impressed by the court in questioning an ex-serviceman, who recently received a medical discharge, as to his knowledge of the alcoholic beverage laws."

Dick asserted that this was the ex-serviceman's "first endeavor in business," and added that "there being very few copies of the law, it didn't seem reasonable for a young man just coming out of service to have full knowledge of the local act."

Advocates Copies of Law

He added that "the court should have available copies of the act in pamphlet form to give to recipients of a license."

"Another matter I think the court is aware of," Dick continued, "is the fact that a local hotel does not and has not for some time qualified for a liquor license under the law."

Dick said the law states an applicant must operate a "bonafide restaurant before liquor can be sold" and added that the hotel does not qualify for this reason "nor do, in my opinion a great many of those who were given licenses Monday."

He said that in his opinion "because a man has bought a restaurant license does not mean he operates a bonafide resturant."

As administrators of the law, the court, Dick said, "should have instructed the law enforcement agencies, the sheriff and state's attorney's office, which has a county investigator, to have checked on the qualifications of those seeking a license."

Dick stated that there were men in court Monday "who have not a blemish on their records as citizens of Allegany county. They and their parents have been taxpayers. It seems as though they received no consideration from the court for having been good citizens," he stated, "but there were people in court holding this prize possession—a liquor license—who were practically total strangers the night they opened their doors for business."

War Veterans Turned Down

He added: "There were men up there Monday who were turned down for liquor licenses, who served in the last war and have given their own flesh and blood in this one."

The alcoholic beverage law in this county "lacks proper enforcement and tends toward flagrant violations," Dick charged, adding that "only a high degree of hypocrisy would make any person believe otherwise."

Dick declared that it has been his "earnest endeavor to represent the people of the county to the best of my knowledge and belief and nobody has ever yet called me a prevaricator for certain statements I have made in the past. The overwhelming expressions of public sentiment led me to introduce this bill (establishing a liquor control board) during the 1945 session" of the legislature.

Accuses Sleeman of Falsehood

"When the chairman of the Allegany county delegation (Jonathan Sleeman, R.-Allegany) stated before the members of the House that there was no expression from the public in behalf of this bill, he was making a false statement," Dick charged, "because he had in his desk at that time cards, innumerable letters and petitions, of which I have copies, expressing a desire for changes in the law and indorsing my bill.

"The reason I know this is because I saw the cards and received copies of the petitions," Dick said, adding, "I've had scores of people tell me since the legislature that they sent letters and telegrams to all members of the delegation indorsing my bill." He recalled that a "delegation of about fifty people"
